

History of HWSA

2000

The Homeschool World Series Association (HWSA) was formed in April 2000 when a group of homeschool baseball program directors and coaches, including Lori Cochran (Houston, TX) and Jeff Hartline (Nashville, TN), united in the joint effort to plan and organize a national homeschool baseball tournament. Six teams representing six different states competed in the inaugural Homeschool World Series, which was hosted by the Nashville (Middle Tennessee) Monarchs at Lipscomb University in Nashville. The Houston HCYA Eagles took possession of the Championship Cup at the first Homeschool World Series, with the Atlanta Barons as first runner-up. The original member teams were Houston Eagles, Atlanta Barons, Nashville Monarchs, Huntsville Falcons, Virginia Beach Breakers, and Wichita Warriors.

2001

In 2001, the 2nd Annual Homeschool World Series was held in Atlanta, GA and jointly hosted by the Atlanta, GA GGC Barons and the Atlanta South Christian Knights. This year, the addition of a Girls Fast-Pitch Softball World Series was also realized. Eight baseball teams and three softball teams competed. This second annual event saw the Houston, TX Eagles and Atlanta, GA Barons meet once again in the Championship game. This year, the Barons claimed the Championship over the Eagles, and the Houston Lady Eagles triumphed over the Virginia Beach, VA Lady Breakers.

2002

Ten (10) baseball teams competed, where the Atlanta, GA Barons, facing the Houston, TX Eagles for the third time in the Championship game, reclaimed the Championship title. Following the World Series, a group of like-minded World Series organizers representing different teams and states formed the HWSA Board and took the next step of incorporating as a non-profit organization formally under the name of the Homeschool World Series Association. Larry Cochran (Austin, TX) was voted in as HWSA's first board president.

2003

In 2003, the HWSA planned the 4th Annual Homeschool World Series in Niceville, FL (near Ft. Walton Beach). The addition of three Regional Qualifying Tournaments to advance 8 of 15 teams to the Homeschool World Series was made. HWSA also organized a five-team 2nd Annual Homeschool Softball World Series. The Atlanta Barons made a "three-peat" when they beat the Huntsville, AL Falcons in the Championship game. The Virginia Beach Lady Breakers defeated the Atlanta Lady Barons to claim their first softball championship title.
